

The Monetary Alternatives Project

Sat 3 Jan 2015, 10am, London

Call For Papers

An investigation of alternatives to money, with an emphasis on radical change. This conference is designed for anyone who can imagine a world without money, or who would like to. Will technology could do to the money system what WWW has done to the postal system? How realistic or desirable are alternatives to money issued by an alliance of governments and bankers?

Lectures and discussions with a range of speakers seeking a fundamental change will conclude with an open space. Speakers are invited to submit a short bio and details of the ideas they would like to present. Topics include:

- The “financial crisis”
- Commercially controlled media
- Gift economy
- Psychological effects of money
- Alternative economic models
- Commoning
- Ecological effects of capitalism
- Digital currencies
